
A futuristic space scene featuring a large, dark planet in the foreground. A bright sun is visible in the upper left, creating a lens flare effect. Several spacecraft are scattered throughout the scene, including a large, complex vessel in the center and smaller, more distant ships. The overall atmosphere is dark and mysterious, with a focus on advanced technology and exploration.

It is the year 2517.
Humanity has colonized
dozens of planets and moons in a distant solar system.

The symbol for save is still a floppy disk.

The image shows two Star Trek Enterprise ships in space. One is a sleeker, more modern-looking ship on the left, and the other is the classic Enterprise (NCC-1701-A) on the right. They are set against a dark starfield with a large, bright red planet in the lower-left corner. The text is overlaid on the lower-left portion of the image.

It is the year 2387. Earth is in the United Federation of Planets.

Yakira Heistand still isn't answering emails.